TIMO RISSANEN: FASHION CREATION WITHOUT FABRIC WASTE CREATION

THIS BLOG DOCUMENTS THE PROGRESS (AND OCCASIONALLY NOT) OF MY PHD, COMMENCED IN LATE 2004. I'M INVESTIGATING FASHION CREATION WITHOUT FABRIC WASTE CREATION THROUGH DESIGN PRACTICE. THE VIEWS EXPRESSED HERE ARE MY PERSONAL OPINIONS, AND DO NOT REPRESENT THOSE OF ANY ORGANIZATION I MAY WORK FOR OR BE OTHERWISE INVOLVED WITH. COPYRIGHT TIMO RISSANEN 2006-2010

Terry Fox, Resurrectine, 2007

The Junky Styling Wardrobe Surgery is an extension of Resurrectine, a fantastic exhibition at the Ronald Feldman Gallery. I spent a good hour again yesterday checking it out. The exhibition has been extended by a month to July 23 so do see it. I don't have images for two of my favourite works but I'm going back on Saturday to say goodbye to Annika and Kerry so will get photos of them then. In the meanwhile, I adore the things I've included here.
